

Before You Get in the Cab

- Security awareness training. You must receive training that provides an awareness of security risks associated with hazmat transportation and methods designed to enhance transportation security. The training must also include a component covering how to recognize and respond to possible security threats.
- In-depth security training. If your employer is required to complete a security plan, each hazmat employee affected by the plan must be trained about the security plan and its implementation. The training must include company security objectives, organizational security structure, specific security procedures, specific security duties and employee responsibilities, and actions to be taken in the event of a security breach.

The hazmat functions you perform will determine if more extensive training may be needed on some parts of the regulations. At the very least, as a driver you will need to receive training that covers:

- The Hazardous Materials Table and Classification
- Part 172 Subpart C – Shipping Papers
- Part 172 Subpart D – Marking
- Part 172 Subpart E – Labeling
- Part 172 Subpart F – Placarding
- Part 172 Subpart G – Emergency Response Information
- Part 177 Subpart A – General Information and Regulations
- Part 177 Subpart B – Loading and Unloading
